I have really enjoyed the acing series. The checklists are generally very helpful in conceptualizing difficult concepts. Acing Con law is completely different. It basically only summarizes the case law. The checklist does not walk you through the analysis of problems, but merely restates the cases. Not super helpful for exam prep.

Contracts is a common law subject because it is based largely on the decisions of judges as opposed to legislative enactment. This is not to say, however, that there is no statutory law governing contracts because there is a strong legislative component, most notably in the form of the Uniform Commercial Code ("UCC") governing the sale of goods.
